

To whom it may concern,

I am very opposed to any more deregulating of the media industry. First, the Fairness Doctrine got tossed out, then the monopoly laws were weakened and now they are going to be weakened even further. During this most recent war, I was appaled by the lack of accountability concerning major media, which was not required to even tell the truth much less report fairly. I am very afraid of what might happen if we let corporate interests have complete control of the airwaves and media.

Please, these corporations have too much power over our public discourse as it is. Don't give them more.

Sincerely,
Rico Marcelli
Oakland, CA